Jack Edwards Badly Hurt In a Runaway—Several Ribs Are Broken.

Lowell, Ariz., April 10, 1908. Jack Edwards, an employee of the Palace livery stable in Lowell, had a narrow escape from death this afternoon. Edwards was breaking in a horse belonging to Road Overseer Humphrey, when the animal became frightened and ran over the bankment this side of the bridge on Naco road. As he was driving towards Bisbee, a passerby drove too close to him and frightened the horse, with the above result. Edwards was taken to the Calumet & Arizona hospital, where it was found that he had suffered several serious injuries and bruises, including raw breaking of several ribs. His right ear was almost torn from his head, and quite a number of stitches had to be taken to replace it. Although badly battered up, he was able to be about this evening.

Independent Company Wins. H. L. Humm, brother of Deputy Sheriff George Humm, who is interested in an electrical construction company in Los Angeles, has received word that his company won in the election last Tuesday for a franchise against the Bell Company in Dallas, Texas. The company won at a rate of two to one. The election was hotly contested, much money being spent in their effort to defeat the independent concern. Mr. Humm will go to Dallas in a few weeks to supervise the installation of the system.

Give Reception. The Christian Endeavor Society of the Lowell chapel tendered a reception to the Sunday school children of the chapel at the chapel building this evening. The festivities began at 8 o'clock and lasted until after 10. The evening was spent in playing various games.

the Copper Queen hospital several days ago suffering with rheumatism, left that institution this morning much improved. He will leave for the hot springs at Aguascalientes, in Yuma county, tomorrow morning.

DOUGLAS NEWS NOTES

MRS. FISHER INJURED
IN A RUNAWAY YESTERDAY

About 2 o'clock yesterday, just as Mrs. E. E. Fisher, of Douglas, started to take a drive, the horse became fractious and ran away. Mrs. Fisher was thrown out and her back was injured. The runaway was overturned and smashed to pieces. The animal was driven up to the rear of the McGuire house, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, and Mrs. Fisher had stepped in, when the animal became excited, kicking, turning and starting to run. After starting towards Eleventh street the horse changed its mind and swung directly around towards Twelfth street. Mrs. Fisher started to jump and was thrown from the rig as it overturned, lighting on her head and hip and wrenching her back. The rig was completely overturned and the horse proceeded to kick himself free, after which he ran to Twelfth street where he was caught. The driver was uninjured.

REDDING CASE
MYSTERIOUS ONE

Had Complained That Women With Her at Douglas Had Taken Her Money.

To the mysterious case of Mrs. Robert Redding, B. Q. Musgrave of Douglas in a letter to the El Paso Herald, adds the following: "Mrs. Redding came some days ago in company with two ladies who claimed to be nieces of Mrs. Redding and secured rooms at the St. Denis rooming house, conducted by my granddaughter, Mrs. Witten. They remained at this house for about three days, and finally left on the train for El Paso in each other's company."

"Mrs. Redding informed Mrs. Witten, and afterwards me, that the two women with her had doped her and taken all the money she had, and begged us to protect her from them. This statement, coupled with the request the two women had made of Mrs. Witten when they secured the room, viz: 'That they would pay her double price for the room if she would allow no one to go into it while the old lady was there,' made me suspicious and I notified the police. I saw Mrs. Redding when she first came and she appeared to be in good health, and while in conversation with Andy Boultinghouse I was surprised to hear him say that she would be dead before the next day, and after these other matters came up I asked him what he knew that made him say what he had, and received the following reply in substance: 'I saw the two women give her medicine that I didn't think anyone could stand, and one of them offered to cut the money with me' but did not say for what purpose. Mrs. Witten also saw the two women give her three teaspoonfuls of laudanum and she begged her not to let them give her any more. I did all I could to protect her, bringing the chief of police, deputy sheriff, district attorney and justice of the peace to investigate the matter. She told them practically what she did me; but they seemed to pay very little attention, rather believing the story of the two women, that she was a dope fiend and they were her friends and were giving her the medicine by direction of her physician. They told the judge they had her money and were going to take care of it for her. Mrs. Redding was well known to Mrs. Richardson of this city, who offered to take her and care for her if the two women would turn over her trunk and clothes, but they refused to do so."

"Want Ads"

That's what Printers call them, but the correct and more dignified designation is "Classified Advertisements." The people of Bisbee have never fully appreciated the power or usefulness of this cheap and simple method of advertising. The Review is read by 15,000 people daily. Our circulation is 3,000 daily, and 1,500 of these subscribers are in Bisbee, Lowell and Warren. The estimate is that five people read every paper circulated, so that a little "Want Ad." that costs 25c is shown to 7,500 home people each issue. Our rate for this class of advertising is 1 cent a word, but no ad. is taken for a less charge than 25 cents. Thus an ad. with 8 words one time would cost 25 cents, but if you desire to run it more than a single issue, there would be no further charge for the following two issues.
